

GAME RULES

ANTS

n°4
created by Léandre Proust

Game Objective

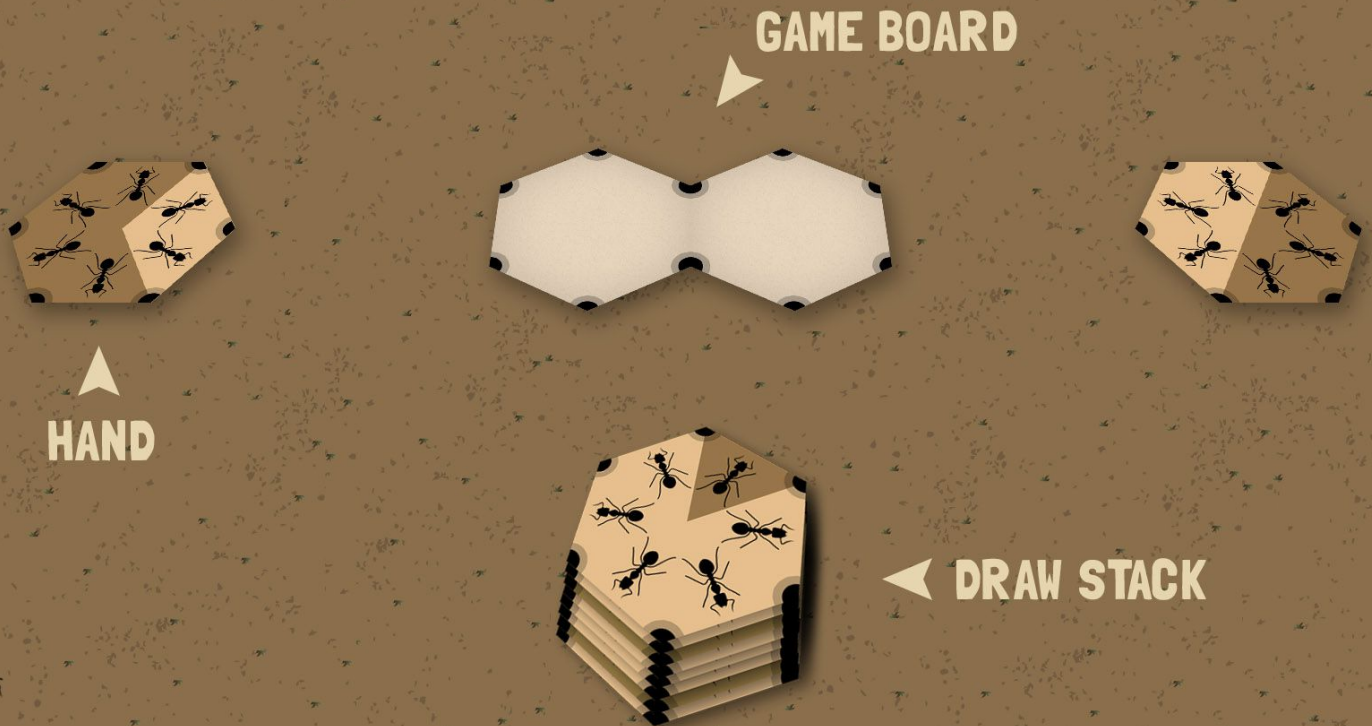

The game objective consists in placing ants on the Game Board in order to achieve the greatest area of pheromone of its color

Setup

Game Tiles are of two different colors: Beige and brown. One player takes the beige ones, the other takes the brown ones.

Shuffle all Game Tiles together to form a Draw Stack, face up. Each player randomly draws one Tile and puts it in front of him, face up. It's his Hand. Put the Double Tile in the center of the table. It's the Game Board.

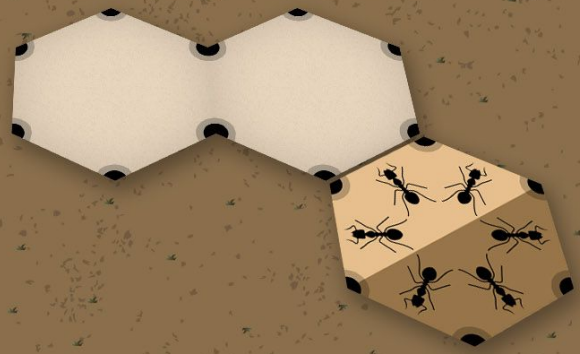

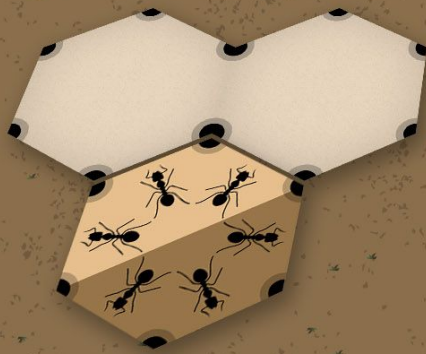

The smallest player plays first.

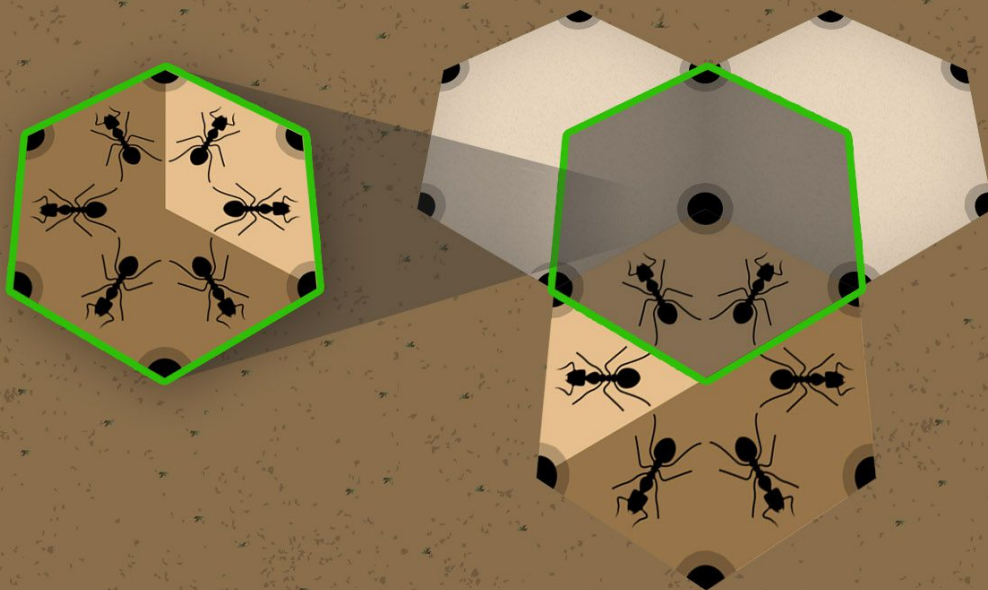

How to play

Players perform their turn one after the other. During his turn, a player draws a new Tile and adds it to his Hand. He then chooses one of his two available Tiles and places it on the Game Board.

When a player places a Tile on the game board, it must be connected to other Tiles already on the Game Board by at least two of its sides.

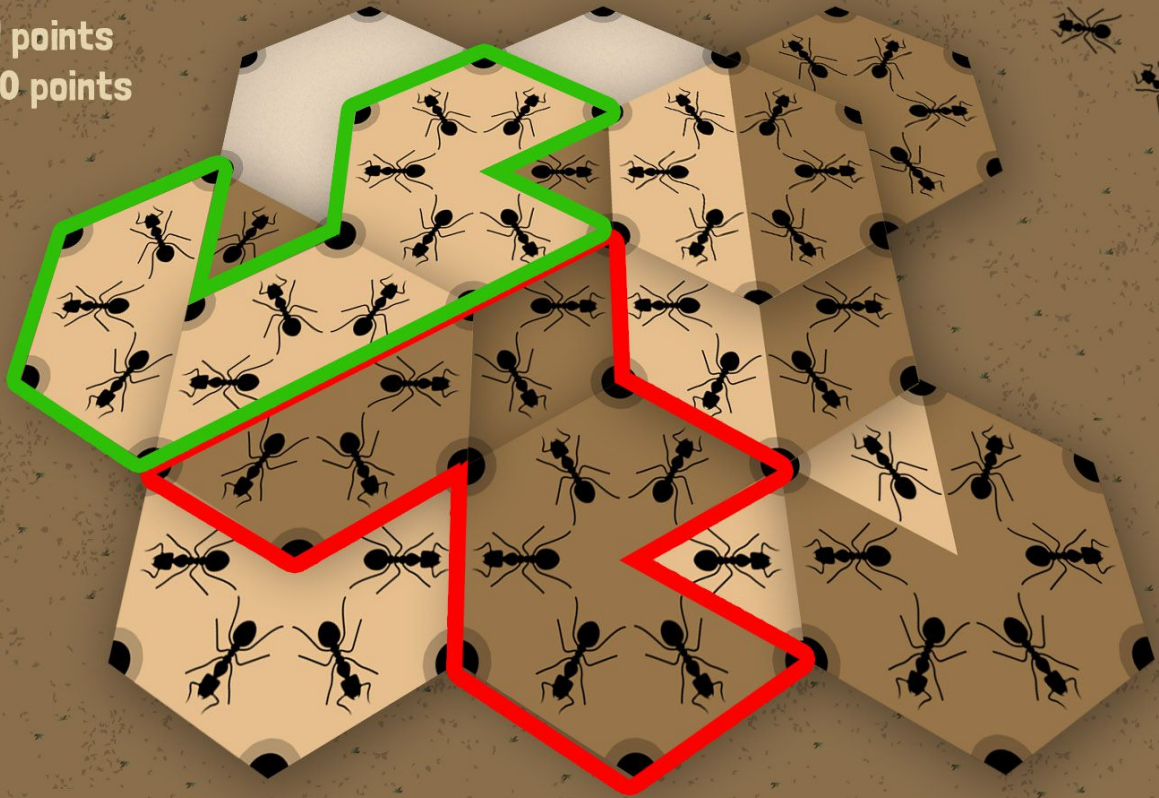

You can create different levels by putting a Tile in such a way it overlays other Tiles on the Game Board. To this end, the Tile must fully overlay the black dot constituted by other Tiles already on the Game Board. When a player puts a Tile this way, the latter doesn't have to be connected to other Tiles on the Game Board by two of its sides.

Victory Conditions & End of Play

The game ends when the Draw Stack is empty, and all Tiles have been placed on the Game Board. The player who owns the largest ant's numbers in the greatest area of his color wins.

BEIGE : 11 points
BROWN : 10 points
